MAYOR OF LONDON

Who am I voting for?

The Mayor of London has powers over a wide range of services in London, including: transport; policing; fire and safety; urban regeneration; economic development; and arts and culture.

How do I vote?

In the election for the Mayor you have two votes – one for a first choice and one for a second choice. You will be given a ballot paper like this:

Election of Mayor		You have two votes
		1st Choice	2nd Choice
1	CANDIDATE ONE Party A
2	CANDIDATE TWO Party B
3	CANDIDATE THREE Party C
4	CANDIDATE FOUR Party D

Mark an X in the first column next to the name of the person who is your first choice for Mayor of London. If you do not vote in this column, your ballot paper will not be counted.

Mark an X next to the name of the person who would be your second choice for Mayor of London. If you do not vote in this column, your first choice vote will still be counted. If you vote twice for the same candidate, your second vote will not count.

Do not mark more than one X in each column – your votes will not be counted if you do. Do not fold your ballot paper.

How the votes work

If one candidate gets more than half of the first choice votes, he or she is the winner.

If no candidate gets more than half of the first choice votes, all candidates except the two with the most are ruled out of the contest. The ballot papers of those voters whose first choice vote was for an eliminated candidate are then examined. Any second choice votes from these ballot papers for the two remaining candidates are added to their scores. Whoever of the two remaining candidates then has the most first and second choice votes is the winner.

MALONEY 4 MAYOR

STOP THE CAREER POLITICIANS - VOTE FOR FRANK

"I am standing for Mayor of London because like you I am frustrated with the career politicians in this country. I live, work and I am raising a family in London so I know the problems that we all face. I have faced many challenges and have succeeded against the odds. Being Mayor of London will be my greatest challenge yet. The next four years will be spent giving the streets of our city back to Londoners and putting pride and respect back into our communities."

TAKE THE HANDCUFFS OFF THE POLICE: 40,000 police officers, less political correctness, replace the Community Support Officers, more street patrols to crack down on drugs and anti-social behaviour. Victims should be given priority not the criminals.

CATCH CRIMINALS NOT MOTORISTS: Abolish the Congestion Charge, no more speed cameras, no more speed bumps, 24 hour transport for a 24 hour city, more conductors on buses, later running underground services, extend Underground to South East London. Free bus travel for under 18's travelling to school.

KIDS ON PLAYING FIELDS NOT ON CRACK: Stop selling off school playing fields, competitive sports for young people in a London youth games, more youth clubs with more facilities, mayoral scholarships for disadvantaged children to go to university. Give our children an alternative to gangs and street crime.

LONDON IS GREAT, LET'S SHOW THE WORLD: Businesses have the option of opening 24 hours, an annual St George's Day parade, full support for the Olympic bid and other international events, market London to the world to attract tourists and the conference trade, give assistance to businesses in deprived areas, preserve and encourage all London's street markets. Let's have a city for the 21st Century.

LONDON LIFE: Reduce the Mayor's take of Council tax; abolish the most expensive talking shop in the country - the GLA, NO MORE GIMMICKS, give pensioners a higher state pension, more affordable homes for young British people, families and the poor, tighten immigration controls, less illegal asylum seekers, regenerate our Council Estates. Londoners don't want to live in slums.

IF NEW YORK'S MAYOR CAN CUT CRIME, WHY CAN'T LONDON'S?

IT CAN BE DONE. VOTE STEVE NORRIS.

CONSERVATIVE. FOR A SAFER LONDON.

Everywhere I go in London, people tell me they don't feel safe on their own streets any more. Black or white, rich or poor, young or old, the message is the same. Street crime, vandalism and graffiti are blighting too many lives. That's why cutting crime is my top priority.

The Mayor can make a real difference. He controls the £2.7bn Metropolitan Police budget. Yet under this Mayor, crime in London has risen and violent crime is soaring.

It doesn't have to be like this. Mayor Giuliani slashed crime in New York, the crime capital of America, by nearly half in his first four years.

I aim to follow that good example. Here's what I'll do to start:

- Insist that hundreds more police officers are actually out on the streets rather than in cars or offices
- Encourage "zero tolerance" for minor crimes like graffiti, vandalism and public drunkenness
- Give outer London a proper share of police officers, as crime is rising fastest in the suburbs
- Offer teenagers a real alternative to crime by doubling the funding of youth projects

- Launch a New York-style 'Compstat' system to target and manage crime more effectively.

If crime isn't down by the next mayoral election, I will not stand again.

And as well as tackling crime, here are just some of the other practical changes I will deliver as Mayor:

- Introduce free school buses for children at primary schools, cutting congestion on the roads
- Abolish the congestion charge that has damaged businesses and divided communities, scrap the extension into West London and grant an amnesty for all outstanding penalty charge notices
- Negotiate to run the Tube until 3am at weekends, put air conditioning into stations and provide security guards at night.

I want to see these changes happen. I want to see London become the vibrant, safe, world-class city it should be. I know it can be done.

But I need your vote on June 10th to help me do it.

Together, we can make this a better and safer city for every Londoner.

Ram Gidoomal C.B.E.

From a corner shop in Shepherd's Bush aged 16, to the top of a £150 million multi-national employing 7,000 people, Ram Gidoomal now puts his energies into improving life for thousands of Londoners through running job skills programmes, and as an advisor to Government, business, the health service and the voluntary sector.

“ London deserves better than to be kicked around left, right and centre by the main political parties. That's why I am standing, to give Londoners a choice of something different.

Competence and accountability are needed more than PR and politicians. As Mayor of London I pledge to deliver both of them.

London expects crime to be tackled:
I will lead the drive to make London a safer place for all and to restore public confidence in the police and legal system.

Our children deserve the best:
As Mayor, I'll see that through education children are given a framework of learning and both moral and personal values. London needs 130 new schools. I will see they have a Christian/Faith foundation.

Six out of the ten of Britain's poorest boroughs are still in London despite 4 years of the GLA. This is intolerable:
I will use my business expertise to establish a £500 million London Regeneration Fund to bring new life and jobs to the capital. The divide between rich and poor has to be tackled.

It should be possible for London to have an coherent, integrated transport system:
This is still not happening. I will see that it does.

As Mayor I will do all I can to bring Christian values of justice, integrity, compassion and reconciliation. Far from being a weakness, our diversity is a cause of celebration and a source of strength. ”

STANDING UP FOR LONDON

When I became Mayor, in May 2000, London had suffered nearly 20 years of neglect under Tory governments – leaving us with the highest cost of living in the country, a shortage of affordable housing, severe traffic congestion, over-crowded and unreliable public transport, not enough police on the streets, a deteriorating environment and some of the worst poverty in Britain.

It will take more than four years to solve those problems but, together with the Labour members of the London Assembly, we secured a big increase in funding for London and started the policies and investment needed to improve the quality of life for Londoners.

We have recruited 4,500 extra police so that officers can start to go back on the beat in local neighbourhoods. We have transformed London's bus services – with new, more accessible vehicles and faster, more reliable services. We are the first major city in the world to reduce traffic congestion in the city centre. We have introduced new planning rules so that developers now have to make half of all new houses affordable to first time buyers. We have championed equal opportunities for all Londoners and we are bidding to bring the Olympic Games to London.

I am standing for re-election as Mayor to continue to improve the city – including the following pledges:

Continue the programme of police teams of six officers for London's neighbourhoods to cut crime and make our streets, parks and public transport safer.

Extend the improvements in bus services and start delivering similar improvements to the rest of the transport system, particularly the Tube.

Improve transport in outer London with better buses and new tram lines.

Run the Tube later every Friday and Saturday night with a free service on New Year's Eve.

Work with government, boroughs and the voluntary sector with the long-term aim that every parent who wants it has access to high quality, affordable childcare.

30,000 new homes a year for London.

Tackle the air pollution that causes 1,600 premature deaths in London each year, making London a Low Emission Zone – with rigorous pollution standards for lorries, buses, coaches and taxis.

Make travel on buses anywhere in London free for young people under the age of 18 in full-time education.

“London’s infrastructure is woefully inadequate. Worse, at a time when roads and tube are failing, hospitals are under pressure and the police are struggling with rising crime, the government are backing the London bid for the 2012 Olympic games. This is a complete waste of money. Labour’s ‘big project’ record is not good. The Dome was a costly fiasco.

London needs basics like transport, police, housing and jobs – not costly white elephants.”

London needs...

JULIAN LEPPERT

BRITISH NATIONAL PARTY

ASYLUM

The British National Party is best known for its opposition to further immigration. This isn’t a matter of colour. Britain is an overcrowded island and the BNP is equally opposed to immigration from Eastern Europe. There is wide agreement on this point from people of all backgrounds.

TAX AND JOBS

Government figures (which everyone treats with caution these days) estimate that Londoners are paying for the upkeep of 300,000 ‘asylum seekers’ in the capital. This is costing us £billions in taxation.

Everyone knows that these people are not, in the main, seeking asylum but are economic migrants forcing up rents & house prices and forcing down wages of ordinary Londoners – black, white and Asian alike.

TRANSPORT

BNP policies for transport include two new orbital rail lines – an inner suburban line of about 3 miles radius largely based upon existing track and an outer suburban line, 8-10 miles radius – possibly a tram line.

HOUSING

The almost unbearable pressure for new homes is directly linked to the influx of hundreds of thousands of ‘asylum seekers’. Rather than trying to meet rising demand, we should be stemming that demand. The BNP’s national immigration policies will do just that. We would then be able to improve housing stock and make housing affordable once again.

SCRAP THE CONGESTION CHARGE

The charge has failed and it’s time to scrap it. Businesses have been hit, communities divided, prices have risen as the cost of the charge has been passed on and motorists penalised.

HEATHROW

No extensions should be made to Heathrow. It’s time to build a new airport far out in the Thames Estuary with a high speed rail link to central London. Offshore airports built on artificial islands have been very successful in other countries and allow take off and landing over the sea. This would give the country a huge prestige project, facilitate the needs of air travel, provide jobs and alleviate the suffering and misery of people living in West London caused by a growing Heathrow.

TWO MORE REASONS TO VOTE FOR JULIAN LEPPERT

- A BNP Mayor will abandon the 2012 Olympic bid. The transport system is appalling and cannot cope as it is; much of the city’s appearance is shabby; lawlessness is rife so tourist safety cannot be guaranteed and lax immigration controls could turn it into a terrorists’ dream.
- St George’s Day will be promoted in London, not ignored as it has been.

Real Progress

Darren Johnson - Green Party Candidate for Mayor of London

My vision for the future is a vision of a Green London where we reduce traffic, protect our environment and reduce the gap between rich and poor. I don't just see London as one huge sprawling metropolis but a city of urban villages, each with quality local services, a strong voice for the local community and local jobs.

Elected Greens have been a strong voice for London's communities. More and more Greens are getting elected. Voting Green will make a difference. I urge you to vote Green.

Published and promoted by Chris Cotton,
28c Radbourne Road, London SW12 0EF, on behalf of Darren Johnson transport affordable, safe, reliable

As Mayor I will be working:

- ▶ for a reliable and safe public transport system - publicly owned, integrated and working smoothly;
- ▶ for traffic reduction by expanding the congestion charge scheme;
- ▶ for reduced speed limits, better cycling facilities, and safe pedestrian routes for every school.

Darren has played an active role in Green politics over the past two decades and has a clear track record of winning elections. He was elected to the London Assembly in May 2000 and was also the first Green to take a seat on Lewisham Council. Vote for Darren as your first choice for Mayor on June 10th.

better public services and local amenities

Improving public services is at the heart of my vision for London. I will:

- ▶ oppose privatisation and cutbacks;
- ▶ work to ensure local services, such as healthcare, libraries and post offices are within walking distance for all;
- ▶ put an end to homelessness and poor housing with a new Housing for London Authority;
- ▶ protect parks, playing fields, open space and create 1,000 new allotment plots.

economy for Londoners not big business

The Mayor should work for Londoners, not big business. I will:

- ▶ work for an affordable London with action to end poverty;
- ▶ create jobs in green and creative industries, and in manufacturing;
- ▶ work to breathe life into local economies and local shopping parades and high streets.

a fair London

I will work for a London where we:

- ▶ put an end all forms of racism, sexism and homophobia;
- ▶ give a fair deal for pensioners and disabled people;
- ▶ live in safer neighbourhoods, by tackling fear, crime and its causes.

a green London

As London's Mayor I will:

- ▶ make solar panels compulsory for all new developments and introduce a Zero Waste strategy, expanding recycling and ending incineration;
- ▶ protect animal rights, wildlife and habitats;
- ▶ press for an Air Traffic Congestion Charge, and an end to airport expansion and night flights.

Vote Green on 10th June

HOBBIES: Gardening, music, dancing, technology, Ikido.

MANIFESTO

TRANSPORT: Review and make changes to all aspects and provide best value for money to all – businesses, residents and commuters. Congestion charging – have it between 7am and 9.30am only. Raise revenue by other means. No big lorries between 6am and 6pm in central London. Persuade councils not to have too many one way systems and too many road ramps in smaller roads. Environmental pollution is caused by the length of time a vehicle is driven. London's economy is very important. Small businesses should not be hindered by double yellow lines on the non-business side of roads. Bus lane problems need sorting.

ENVIRONMENT: The Mayor needs to see that the environment should not cause health hazards. Who would be better than a doctor trained in the speciality? Public health is a matter for the Borough councils. The Mayor can help them here. It would save the NHS money and get our city clean.

POLICING: Provide sufficient funds for recruiting and training officers. Have better street lighting in alley-ways and corners of trouble spots. Get councils to provide CCTV in problem council estates and other problem areas.

Vote Lorna Reid for London Mayor June 10

My message to London's political elite...

“We live here too!”

Lorna Reid, 39, an advice-worker and mother of two, lives on a council estate in Islington. Lorna, a voluntary director of Islington's Tenants Federation, has a long record of working alongside fellow tenants to improve living conditions and increase play and youth provision in her area.

In 2002 Lorna stood as an IWCA candidate for the first time in the local elections, outscoring candidates from three nationally known parties to take second place.

Dear voter,

My aim on June 10 is to give a political voice to the millions of working class people in London whose concerns are ignored by all the mainstream parties.

While out-of-touch politicians battle for the 'middle ground' and the votes of 'middle England', ordinary Londoners are rightly dismayed by the lack of progress on key issues since Labour took power in 1997.

Issues such as the increase in anti-social and drug-related crime; the growing housing crisis; mounting council tax bills; the farce that is privately-run public transport; the closure and privatisation of public services and facilities; poverty pay; the lack of affordable child care; an education system that is failing our children.

The reality is that our city is becoming ever more polarised between the super-rich and the rest of us, with child and pensioner poverty in the capital amongst the worst in Europe: a modern day tale of two cities.

Working class people in London need a strong voice. I want to play my part in making that voice heard. My message to London's political elite is: 'We live here too!'

iwca manifesto for London

● Crime & anti-social behaviour – Further increasing police numbers will achieve nothing unless they are made answerable to the local communities they are meant to serve. Communities must be politically supported in tackling anti-social behaviour, not left to fend for themselves against persistent offenders. We also need to invest in facilities for young people and in treatment for those looking to escape drug addiction.

● London's housing crisis – The capital is in the grip of a housing crisis, with property prices beyond the reach of most Londoners. Thousands of families still live in overcrowded conditions on rundown housing estates, while thousands of others live in temporary accommodation. Securing the necessary increase in good quality, affordable homes and public funding for council housing must be one of the Mayor's top priorities.

● Scrap the unfair Council Tax – Working class people pay, on average, four times more of their income on council tax than the wealthiest households. The council tax should be abolished and replaced by a form of local taxation that is based on ability to pay.

● A living wage – Millions of hard-working people are forced to claim benefits or tax credits because they cannot survive on the low wages paid by contractors and private companies. All citizens working in one of Europe's wealthiest and most expensive cities should be entitled to a living wage of £7.32 per hour.

● Public pain – private gain – Responsibility for all areas of our lives is being placed under the control of unaccountable private companies with often-catastrophic results. Londoners want quality services that are publicly accountable and publicly financed.

● Asylum seekers - spreading the cost – Extra provision from central government must be made for working class communities that accommodate the majority of refugees, in recognition of the increased demand on already meagre local resources.

● Regenerating London – For many working class Londoners, so-called regeneration schemes have been a hugely negative experience. Instead of executive apartments and expensive restaurants for the privileged few, real regeneration should be about decent homes, jobs, and opportunities for everyone.

A new Mayor for a Greater London

4 Cowley Street London SW1P 3NB
simon@simon4mayor.org.uk

Dear friend,

London is one of the greatest cities in the world. But we can make it better.

London should be a place where none of us have our lives damaged by crime or the fear of crime. It should be a city easy to travel around in. It should be cleaner and greener.

As Mayor I will make sure that each area has 4 locally based permanent police and 4 other officers.

I will make public transport easier and more reliable. The tube will run later 3 nights a week. I will work to make stations safer and train services better.

It is time for our London to have a new start. It is time for a safer, easier, more liveable London.

It is time for a London united.

LIB DEMS UP

LABOUR DOWN

Liberal Democrats are the growing force in London. Last year the Lib Dems beat Labour in Brent.

This year Lib Dems have won from Labour and Conservatives. We are the serious challengers to the tarnished Labour government.

Simon Hughes & Charles Kennedy - winning for a greater London.

3 things to remember

1. Simon Hughes will be the strongest voice for London. Simon will put Londoners' security and safety first.
2. Simon Hughes will be a Mayor in nobody's pocket. He will control council tax and won't waste money.
3. Lib Dems will continue to be the effective national opposition - on the Iraq War, council tax and top up fees.

What Londoners say about Simon...

Simon's plans for urgent work on the tube, improved congestion charging and bus links in outer London will make a big difference.

We need more police in our area. My vote is for Simon.

I know his personal record in fighting for victims and tackling crime.

The Lib Dems stood up to Labour on the war in Iraq.

Londoners deserve RESPECT

‘On June 10 Londoners have an opportunity to vote. This election should be a referendum on Tony Blair and New Labour – the administration which took us into the disastrous war on Iraq. Millions of us campaigned against the war, the hypocrisy, bloodshed and waste of precious economic resources. Tony Blair took us to war on a lie, that Iraq had weapons of mass destruction which could threaten us within 45 minutes. It will only take a few minutes to deliver your verdict on that at the ballot box.

It wasn't just New Labour, of course. The Tories supported the war from the start. Once the war began the Liberal Democrats also supported it. There is a yearning for an alternative. Respect is that alternative. Respect is a new party, born out of the anti-war movement.

We oppose the policies of the New Labour government which has helped to foster racism. We are committed to a multicultural London, and our candidates reflect that.

Respect, unlike New Labour, stands for peace, social justice and the principle that everyone deserves high-quality public provision at every stage of their life. The cost of the war so far has been at least £6 billion. Just think what that money could usefully have done, building houses, schools and providing affordable public transport.

That's why London needs Respect.’

THE LONDON ASSEMBLY

Who am I voting for?

The London Assembly holds the Mayor to account. It can amend the Mayor's budget and investigate issues of concern to Londoners. The Assembly is made up of 14 'constituency' members who are each elected by, and represent, a different constituency (made up of two to four London boroughs), plus 11 'London-wide' members who are elected by, and represent, the whole of London.

How do I vote?

In the election for Assembly members, you have two votes – one for a constituency member and one to help elect the London-wide members. You will be given a ballot paper like this:

Mark an X in the first column next to the name of the person you would like to be your constituency member in the London Assembly.

Mark an X in the second column next to the party you would like to have a London-wide member in the London Assembly.

Do not mark more than one X in each column – your votes will not be counted if you do.

Do not fold your ballot paper.

How the votes work

In each constituency, the candidate with the most constituency member votes is the winner and becomes the Assembly Member from that constituency. The votes for the London-wide members cast in all 14 constituencies are added together. As long as a party has gained enough votes, they will be entitled to a London-wide member seat in the Assembly. The number of London-wide seats that a party gets is proportional to their share of the total number of votes cast across London, taking into account the constituency seats they have already won.

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT

Who am I voting for?

The European Parliament passes laws that affect everyone in the European Union (EU). It deals with issues such as: the environment; trading standards; employment rights; and economic development.

Members of the European Parliament (MEPs) have the power to change, approve or reject new EU laws. The UK has 78 MEPs and nine of these are elected by, and represent, the London region.

How do I vote?

In the election for MEPs you have one vote. You will be given a ballot paper like this:

Election for the European Parliament London Region You have one vote		Vote once only (X)
1	Party A
2	Party B
3	Party C
4	Party D
5	Party E
6	Party F
7	Party G
8	Candidate One
9	Candidate Two
10
11
12
13
14
15

Mark an X next to the name of the party you want to represent you in the European Parliament.

Do not mark more than one X on this paper - your vote will not be counted if you do.

Do not fold your ballot paper.

How the votes work

The votes for MEPs from across the whole of London are added together.

As long as a party has gained enough votes they will be entitled to a seat in the European Parliament. The number of seats that a party gets is proportional to their share of the total number of votes cast across London to elect MEPs.
